FROM PASTOR BECKY ...

Everyone knows by now that I am not a fan of winter or snow. As I was complaining recently, someone kindly offered me a reminder that the snow keeps the trees alive during the harshness of the winter season. One of my favorite places to be in warmer months is out among the trees. So, now every time I see a snowflake or the forecast calls for winter weather, I try to remind myself of the new life that will come in just a few short months and that the trees need the water. The roots of trees are amazing. They dig deep searching for water. It is awe inspiring to think that some plants have root systems that stretch for miles.

I have been thinking of the trees a lot recently because we are approaching Lent and our theme will encourage us to look at our roots. As we approach that season, I would like you to start asking yourselves a question, “How are your roots?” Our faith needs a strong root system. It is important that we nourish our faith just as all living, breathing things need nourishment. As Lent approaches, I invite you to take the time to slow down and tend to your faith. Spend some time in the presence of the Divine, nourish your soul, and surround yourselves with people who help you on your faith journey.

In light and love, Pastor Becky

Dance With a Stranger by Freeman Palmer

Let them praise God's name with dancing, making melody to God with tambourine and lyre. – Psalm 149:3 (NRSV, adapted)

A college friend recently introduced me to a song I'd never heard, from a band I'd never heard of. The band is Lake Street Dive, nicknamed LSD (which, for those of a certain age, means something very different!). The song is “Dance with a Stranger.” Curious, I gave it a listen soon after our conversation, and I was struck by the spiritual message in its lyrics, which say in part: Look around the room; Find somebody you've never seen before, And lead them out to the dance floor. And dance, dance with a stranger, 'Til they're not a stranger anymore

The music video captures the lyrics beautifully. A dazzling array of unlikely dance partners fills the floor: an African American drag queen sashays with a young white woman in a floral bonnet; a cleric grooves with a middle-aged man who might belong to another faith—or none at all. Even the initially stone-faced security guard gets his groove on and joins the crowd.

You can see it at:

https://youtu.be/n\_h4E0AsaJw?si=giBW56XdwA4gxi0a.

I like to imagine the reign of God as one great dance floor—where there are no wallflowers, and everyone joins in. Picture it: a Fox News commentator doing the electric slide with their CNN counterpart, a rabbi learning the traditional Middle Eastern dance dabke from an imam, and an Olympic athlete swinging their Special Olympics partner through a joyful square dance.

No one would be a stranger on that dance floor. And that would be praise that truly pleases God.

Prayer

Lord of the Dance, teach us to move in rhythm with love, until we are “no longer strangers and aliens.” Amen. (Ephesians 2:19)

Letter from Our Transitional Executive Conference Minister Dated January 6, 2026

Dear Keystone Members and Friends –

“And the light shines in the darkness and the darkness has not overcome it.” (John 1:5)

Grace and Peace to you this New Year! I pray your Christmas season brought the blessings of hope, joy, and peace to your hearts and homes. We now enter the season of Epiphany together as a new Conference, a new church body!

However, epiphany does not close the story of Christmas; it opens it more widely. If Christmas bends low—into straw and breath, into bodies pressed close and love made fragile—Epiphany lifts our gaze. It draws our eyes from the manger to the horizon, from the particular to the vast. It reminds us that what God has begun in Christ cannot be held in one place or told in one voice alone.

On Epiphany we celebrate how Christ was revealed to the Magi, men who read the sky fluently, peering out for new revelations among the stars. The Magi crossed borders and boundaries, guided by a light they did not know but trusted to be significant. They remind us that God’s self-giving grace and light do not stop at the familiar edge of what is known. Instead, Christ’s light has cosmic proportions – in Epiphany Christ is revealed to the nations, and through them, to all creation.

This New Year means we begin life together as the Keystone Conference – with our 500+ churches and thousands of members. Epiphany’s widening light speaks to who we are becoming. We are people shaped by many waters and many roads: by the Susquehanna’s steady flow through fields and towns; by the Delaware’s winding passage between history and change; by the Allegheny and Monongahela converging into new beginnings. We are marked by ridges and valleys, by city streets and quiet crossroads, by coal towns, farm towns, metro areas and suburbia’s spread.

Epiphany proclaims that Christ is revealed not apart from these places, but within them. The Word made flesh continues to dwell where rivers carve the land and where communities seek new ways to live with hope. God’s light gleams on stone and water, sanctuary and sidewalk, past and promise. What once guided the Magi across deserts now shimmers through our shared life, asking us to notice—to pay attention—to trust that God is present here, too.

However, Epiphany does not allow us to remain only observers. The Magi knelt. They offered what they had. And then they left by another way home. We are reminded that to encounter Christ revealed is to be unsettled and remade—to walk with greater tenderness, to step boldly into new places, to cross lines we once guarded, and to carry the light into places longing for grace.

So Epiphany asks us, gently and insistently: Where is the light appearing now—along our rivers, in our towns, among our neighbors? And how might we follow it, even when it leads us home by a different path?

Epiphany assures us that Christ is already among us—shining through creation, revealed across difference, calling us forward into a future held not by fear, but by grace. May we learn to see the light as it widens and have the courage to follow where it leads.

In Peace,

1 Corinthians 13:4-7

Love is patient; love is kind; love is not envious or boastful or arrogant or rude. It does not insist on its own way; it is not irritable or resentful; it does not rejoice in wrongdoing, but rejoices in the truth. It bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things.

"Both the Old Testament and the New are sprinkled with hundreds of food references like Hansel and Gretel's breadcrumbs. From that first bite in Genesis, the great story of God is stuffed with mentions of food and feasts. Everyday edibles become both a source of sustenance and of sacred symbolism. Food often takes on a spiritual dimension, a physical representation of God's grace and provision...food can become a way to feed our bellies and satiate our souls. Indeed, food is an expression of God's love made edible"
